A Glimpse of Arunachal

Arunachal Pradesh is situated in the North Eastern region of the Indian subcontinent. It is a land of natural beauty and cultural richness. It is known as ‘Island of Peace’ for its peaceful and innocent people. The people of Arunachal Pradesh are known for their hospitality and kind nature. The State has a rich cultural heritage and is home to several tribes.

History records their migration in oral tradition. The Christian organization is working hard to promote the growth of Christianity in the region. Their communications are developed and they have a good network of churches. The welfare of the people each tribe is having above 26 tribes and more than 42 languages spoken.

The British were advanced and they burned their houses, killed, destroyed the land, and destroyed the crops. The consequence was that the British partially annexed the region and established her limited administration through the British Political Agent and the British Political Intermperialist as their representatives. Under the British, the region was called North East Frontier Agency. Mji, Riba, the Arunachali, the Hobrook’s, the Bengal’s, the Reliance’s, the British, and the Indian’s culture and tradition were started. The communication, their education, their development, and their culture, which was born in the British era.

The indigenous people of Arunachal Pradesh are basically tribal. They have their own language, culture, and tradition. They are living in peace and harmony. They are living in the same land as their ancestors. They are living in the same environment as their ancestors. They are living in the same culture as their ancestors. They are living in the same tradition as their ancestors.
