Governor exhorts children towards outdoor activities

Governor calls upon the parents and guardians to encourage their wards to take regular physical exercise and engage in outdoor activities.

The Governor said that in the electronic age, most of the children are busy in video games and television programmes. They may be brilliant in their studies but playing on their own ground or staying indoors in an air conditioned room, in the long run, has its own significance in shaping the body and mind. He called upon the parents and guardians to encourage the children to take up regular physical exercise and engage in outdoor activities.

The Governor has been regularly emphasizing on the care takers of the Parks and Gardens to ensure the safety of the children. He instructed that the Parks must be clean and the playing amenities must be in serviceable condition, the Governor stressed, while commending the Department of Environment and Forests for maintaining the Raj Bhavan Parks. He appealed to the corporate houses, NGOs, District Administrations and Government departments to adopt children parks and maintain it in other towns of the State.

Minister Takes Meeting with Admin, Police, Public and NGOs on Growing Drug Menace

KALIDAR, July 30:

The Minister Tax & Excise, Tourism and Cultural Affairs, Soni Jankam Gamlin took up meeting with District administration, Police, public and NGOs to contain the growing problems of drug menace and societal problems arising out of addicted youth in the district at the Conference Hall of DC office today.

Addressing the gathering, Soni Gamlin disclosed that drug addiction among the young generations is quite detrimental for existence of a peaceful society and we should come out united against such ills. Drugs are being used on availability through peddlers and these peddlers need to be booked under various Acts to give exemplary punishment. Most of the officers are local from the district and they need to play proactive role to contain the growing menace of young generations through awareness campaigns. Police will play a critical role in identifying any young boys under 14 yrs unless unusually neglected should be lifted off from the streets. He also informed that immediate revocation of licence is possible for any child who will be found under the influence of narcotic substances. The Superintendent of Police, EAC, EAC Judicial spelt out difference between the regular police activities and police activities targeted towards children. He informed that 39 boys from government junior secondaries and higher secondary schools were arrested in the opening ceremony amidst hundreds of school heads. He also expressed the support of the students’ union and teachers union.

Presiding over the function, the West Siang Deputy Commissioner Smt Swelka Sachan disclosed that strong strategic plans are being drawn to cut off the flow and use of narcotic substances. Arunachal Pradesh has a 94% rural population in the state which is the largest in North-East India. Consequently, the economy of the state is based on the livelihood of farmers and agribusiness.

Terrace Farming in Arunachal Pradesh:
Terracing is a method of farming in the mountains or hilly region where it is not easy to make canals. Basically, it is a method of producing crops on the sides of mountains or hills which help in the gradual drainage of water, thus conserving topsoil and also preventing soil erosion. Similarly, terrace farming is one of the methods followed in the hilly areas, which is the most common and a cost-effective method of farming. The terrace farming is mainly employed effectively to maximize the use of land by creating terraces or gradient land area for cultivating crops.

Types of Terracing:-There are two types of terracing.
1. Grade Terraces - In this method, the terraces are created on the sides of hills. The gradation is made on the slope so that the water that is trapped in the channel or channel moves slowly along the slope to be used effectively.
2. Level Terraces - In this method, a level terrace is maintained.

Terrorizing also helps us in reducing the water loss and soil erosion of your farm. This major and significant advantage of terrace farming is that it helps to make us do farming on the slope and keep the hilly region where it is not too easy to cultivate.

Advantage of Terrace Farming:-
1. Terrace farming restricts the wash away of nutrients from the fields by the rain water. Which cause to good and healthy crop and higher production.
2. Terrace farming is also advisable to follow in those regions which have porous soil.
3. Terrace farming is also suitable in the technique of farming on the terraces and slope, a smooth ridge of earth built across the slope with a canal for rains. It is mainly operated to reduce erosion and water loss. It is mostly used to reduce soil erosion and water loss.
